This week in Year 3...

This week, the children have been using conjunctions in their English writing. This has made a big difference to their sentences which they write. They have also started understanding the role of present perfect tense and used this to write a diary entry.

In Maths, the children have been learning about partitioning numbers to 1000 as well as representing these numbers.

In Art, the children used their learning from the previous lesson, to imagine what happens next to a bulb or a seed and drew this in as much detail as possible.

In RE, the children have been looking at what makes us human and why this is important to us. They looked at a series of statements and decided if they agreed with them or not.

In Music, the children have been continuing their learning all about ballads. This week they started writing lyrics to create a song, using a familiar tune.

Next week's book...
